International Advisory Board News Report No.23 – June, 2024

Private and Confidential

Editorial – The Wooller Curriculum

Dr. Jeff Wooller, an early member of the International Academic Advisory Board developed a very effective way of developing a curriculum for a wide range of courses. Once the general subjects were selected for the program he picked the best textbook he could find on the subject. He then set a series of assessments for the student to marry the knowledge in the textbook to work place situations. As a practical learning tool, this practice works very well.

“Roadmap for Equivalency in Education, Problems, Solutions and Implementation Strategies”

This paper was written by Professor Dr. Kursat S. Yildirim from St Clements University’s Turkish Centre. It was originally published in the Journal of Education of the main University in Indonesia/Timor. It raises a number of ideas relating to the long term objectives of higher education. Attached is the paper.

Lost Emails

Sometimes, for a variety of reasons, emails get lost. Recently Dr. Le Cornu recovered an important email from Professor Dr. Kursat S. Yildirim regarding Doctorates, which was “lost” for over a month. If you send the administration an email and do not get a reply within 5 – 7 days please re-send it. We never try to ignore emails, sometimes they simply can get become lost.

Agreement with GlobalStudy.Net

GlobalStudy.Net which is managed by one of our International Advisory Board members – Professor Dr. Tarun Pathak, has offered to help graduates of our OFQUAL Diploma programs transfer over to a UK University or College. This will help such students navigate the recognised process of joining a number of UK University degree programs.

St Clements University represented at International Positive Psychology Congress

Professor Dr. Kursat S. Yildirim represented St Clements University recently at the 6th International Positive Psychology Congress at Uskudar University in Turkey. This is an important practical form of recognition of St Clements University in Turkey. Psychology is one of St Clements University – Turkey’s main programs.

Doctor of Business Management

This program is taught by SCPU. It is designed for MBA and graduates with other style Master of Management degrees develop their specialised knowledge in a selected Management discipline area. Where a Ph.D. is designed for the student to discover new research in a topic area, this program is designed for them to develop their individual knowledge in a topic area. This is the Doctorate most senior business people should consider studying.

Other Universities – Kennedy University of Baptist

This school is registered in the US state of Florida as a Religious College by the Florida Department of Education Commission for Independent Education, authorised to issue Bachelor, Master and Doctorate degrees. It is also authorised by the Ministry of Education, Culture and Higher Education in the Somali states of Galmudug and Hirshaabelle. Its main location appears to be in Miami USA and their email address is based in Poland. It claims to be inspired by the US President John F. Kennedy who was Catholic not a Baptist – a very interesting school.
